Advisory: Suspension of Classes

October 27, 2025

The University Community is being advised that all classes are suspended with immediate effect until further notice, in light of worsening weather conditions associated with Hurricane Melissa, which is expected to make landfall later today into tomorrow.

The decision has been taken in the interest of the safety and well-being of all students and staff. Members of the University community are urged to remain indoors, avoid unnecessary travel, and continue to monitor official updates from the University and national emergency agencies.

Essential support and welfare services remain in place for international students and authorized local residents who have chosen to remain on campus.

Further updates will be shared as the situation develops.
